

membership for health professionals

As the only accountancy body for public services, we believe the specialist post qualification training and networking we can offer will be advantageous to your personal development and career. We would like to offer senior finance professionals who work in the health and social care sectors the opportunity to become members of CIPFA alongside their current professional membership status. There is no study or sitting of exams required.

CIPFA membership provides a range of benefits including:

- Chartered Public Finance Accountant (CPFA) status
- Joining a network of key decision makers and senior finance professionals across global public services
- Free, local regional events and webinars
- Access to CIPFA's members through the members directory
- Access to our new 'ManagementDirect' online management and leadership e-learning portal
- Online access to Public Money & Management, CIPFA's leading professional and academic journal
- Specialised public sector CPD events including free and discounted CIPFA training courses and use of our Members Lounge at CIPFA HQ
- Access to our latest thought leadership pieces, research reports, papers and journals
- A Technical Enquiry Service – providing fast specialist guidance
- Monthly copies of Public Finance magazine that keeps members up to date with policy and professional development
- A range of discounts that we negotiate on behalf of members.

To apply for the direct route to CIPFA membership you must have:

- An accountancy qualification comparable to the standards of the CIPFA professional qualification e.g. CIMA, ACCA, ICAEW
- Current membership with a recognised accountancy body
- Experience in the public sector.
